WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 .-- (AP)-The National Federation of Telephone Workers, preparing for a country-wide strike in April unless its wage demands are met, today opposed legislation to forbid collective bargaining on an industry-wide basis. Joseph A. Opposition to pending labor legislation also was voiced by Edward G. Wilms, chairman of the independent unions of New Jersey. He told the Senate committee the majority of the bills it is considering would "ignite a campaign to spread the flames of Communism among legitimate and responsible labor unions."

"Give the Communist party punilive legislation such as outlined in these bills," Wilms asserted in a pre-pared statement, "and within a brief period the same congressmen who sponsor this legislation will be beg-ging the ex-leaders of labor, perhaps a little too late, to take the Communists away from their doors."

DISAGREE ON 3 ATOMIC ISSUES

United States Remains Firm In Demand For No Veto

DEBATE IS SCHEDULED

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 20.-AP)-Three principal points of disgreement between Soviet Russia and the United States on atomic control stood out today as the United Nations security council delegates discussed possible ways to harness the atom for peace.

The council was called to meet at 3 p. m. E. S. T. for an important neral debate on the Russian and United States proposals now before the delegates.

It was generally agreed among the delegates that the three outstanding points at issue were:

1. The veto. 2. A convention prohibiting atomic eapons immediately. 3. The lack of powers for construcive work on atomic energy in a ontrol scheme. On the veto, the United States renained firm in its demand the veto ight in the security council must not apply on atomic matters, particularly on punishing offenders of any atomic ontrol set-up.

Russia is equally as firm in de-manding that the veto remain without alteration, which means that the veto would apply on the atomic question as well as any other. Russia also wants all atomic controls established within the framework of the security

The United States, on the convention issue, has insisted on a treaty or a convention which would button up atomic controls, adequate safeguards, and every phase of atomic developnent in one tight package.

Russia, on the other hand, wants an mmediate convention prohibiting use of atomic energy for war-like purposes immediately and another convention setting up the system of con-

Deciding The Two-Term Issue

There was something strange in the way that the House of Representatives decided the question of limiting a president's terms in office. The matter at hand was not a partisan issue, yet the voting was strictly along party lines. Or rather, it was the familiar division of Northern and Western Democrats against their Southern colleagues and the Republicans.

The Republican-Southern Democrat coalition was primarily an afiti-Roosevelt bloc during the late president's administrations. Much the same feeling seems to have inspired the division of votes which approved the resolution calling for a two-term limit.

This two-term limit has to do with the future. Yet Mr. Roosevelt's name came up frequently during the debate. It was invoked by both sides. Those opposing the limitation said that the people had decided the issue by electing Mr. Rocsevelt four times. Those favoring it said that Mr. Roosevelt had broken an unwritten law by running a third time, and that this shattered precedent should be restored and bolstered by constitutional

However, the legislators were also able to discuss the question in a more constructive and realistic manner. And both sides put forward some telling arguments. The pros held that unlimited tenure of office invites an over-concentration of power, sets up an irresponsible bureaucracy, and stifles the normal growth of presidential timber within the party in control. The antis said that a two-term limit would be imposing this generation's will upon future generations who might find it necessary, in an emergency, to continue a president in office beyond two terms. They held that it was more democratic to allow the voters to choose whom they pleased for president. There are certainly dangers and advantages in both views. It is not hard to imagine a time of national crisis, such as war, arising near the end of a president's second term in which the people would prefer to keep the man

But a power-hungry man in the White House might manufacture issues and emergencies designed to keep himself in office. And since a presidential nomination is anot often a direct expression of popular will; a strong man backed by a strong machine might continue in office indefinitely.

The question is not one of electing another Franklin D. Roosevelt to the presidency—though one might think sis from the looks of the House vote. The question is one of trying to foresee the most dangerous eventualities under both the present and the proposed systems

It is doubtful that the people made the final decision when they elected Mr. Roosevelt four times. The essential issue was not a tradition and a precedent. The essential sissue was Franklin D. Roosevelt and the complex circumstances of the particular time.

We should like to see the Senate pass this resolution and let the people act upon it, in the form of a constitutional amendment, through their state legislatures. Then the question of a two-term limit could be decided democratically on its own merits, free from the emotional distractions of personalities and political campaigns.

Thoughts Of Vacation

Comes now the time of year when every unusually warm day sends thoughts spinning wistfully, or longingly-as the case may be-toward vacation-time. After all it's only this many or that many weeks or months until a merciless summer sun will beat down upon millions of Americans starting on their vacations, dashing madly hither and yon, or turning homeward less eagerly to take up the daily grind. The vacation is an American institution that is developing rapidly into one of the nation's biggest industries. Everywhere facilities for vacationers are being expanded, new ones are being created, and all are crowded as never before. This summer will see more Americans indulging in the great national pastime than ever. Velocity of money will reach a new high as pleasure-bent tourists scatter it from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf.

If a man went into the army crazy about split pea soup, but came out of the army despising split pea soup with all his heart and soul, is he eligible for disability

Silly question? I don't think so, not after a letter 1 had today from John W. Davis, who happens to be the service officer of Wiregrass Post No. 59, American Legion, Geneva, Alabama.

After thanking me for publicizing the fact that bald-headed veterans are eligible for wigs from the Veterans Administration, he went on to say that many ex-Gls are unaware that any disability that was aggravated by their service in the armed forces may entitle them to compensation. Mr. Davis enclosed in his letter a pamphlet explaining how to "service-connect your case."

I now am handling the case of a veteran who acquired dandruff while in service," he wrote, "but as yet have not been able to service-connect him. I have under advisement another sad case of a young man who was only 16 years of age when he enlisted. He had nothing but fuzz on his face at the time of enlistment, but the army made him shave, and so I have filed a claim based on the fact that his barber bill was service-connected. I hope to secure for the lad a barrel of razor blades, creams, lotions, etc."

This letter set me to thinking, because I am the fellow who used to dote on pea soup, out who now loathes it as if it were puree of hemlock with mothball croutons. Why shouldn't the Veterans Administration compensate me for this social disability? I didn't ask any compensation for the loss of 80 per cent hearing in my left ear, chiefly because I figured that in case I had to serve another hitch in the army I would be glad to hear only 120 per cent of the commands out of a possible 200

But my hatred of split pea soup has been a constant source of pain and embarrassment to me ever since I swapped khaki for glad rags. Friends who remember how I used to swoon with delight at the sight of the stuff always have it when I have dinner with them, and so I either have to cheke it down or risk offending my host and hostess. This situation has caused me to lose weight, to lose the breadth of shoulder which used to be my pride, to develop wren's feet around my eyes, and to rush for the smelling salts whenever I so much as see a picture of pea soup in an advertisement. Naturally, hese afflictions have caused my pawnbroker to suspect me, my employer to start looking around for a younger and stronger man with my flair for splitting infinitives, and my wife to sleep with one eye open and one hand on the carving knife she has taken to keeping under her

The army was the cause of it all. No matter where I

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.-DEAR STAFF: Once again I want to befriend you kiddles by calling your attention to a golden opportunity. Mull its possibilities well and, you may find yourselves pioneering a most lucrative

This being the age of specialization, I suggest that you become specialists in a wide-open field of Hollywood endeavor-story fumigation. Consider the business potentials

Every day, studios are buying the screen rights to novels and plays so morally objectionable that they can't be screened in their original form. Having spent a halfmillion or so for the neatly packaged smut, the producers then find that a clean-up job is necessary to placate the censors. And with that discovery comes trou-

Are the writers who authored the novels and plays to be trusted? Of course not, for they're become so accustomed to reveling in sexsation that they can't change their habits. They are modern American writers, not story fumigators, and, as I pointed out before, this is an age of specialization. No kiddies, it's at this point that you, once you've properly qualified as clean-up engineers, should come into the picture-and the dough. And don't underestimate the dough; Hollywood studios are now spending more to clean up the stories they buy than they are to buy the stories in the first place. I hardly know how to advise you about preparatory study, but it seems to me that after you have thoroughly reviewed and analyzed the censor board rulings and the American moral code, you would be wise to work for a few months on a garbage truck. Doing that, you would become so accustomed to nauscous odors that you could then handle novels like "Forever Amper," "Serenade" and "Fall of Valor" without flinching.

JIMMIE FIDDLER.

DEAR BOSS: In view of the approach you suggest to Hollywood success, you should have given the above sermon a title—something like "Where There's Swill There's A Way."

For gossip's sake, we beg to report that: Glenda Farrell, absent from the screen for several years, is being paged by Eagle-Lion to co-star with Barton McLane in a series of action thrillers . . . Desi Arnaz is unhappy, and no wonder; he had to nix a $14,000-a-week offer from the Copacabana in Miami pecause he couldn't wangle a release from the Bob Hope air show . . . Ha! Mikhail Rasumny, who waited for months to get work started on a new house, is waiting some more. One of his dogs bit the contractor, who walked off the job in a huft and hasn't returned! . . . Boss, you oughts see the new glamour photos Warner Brothers has made of Eve Arden; unless the Johnston Office interferes, Jane Russell has a new rival . . . Brian Donlevy is in Las Vegas, Nevada, for a month's loll.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., and Martha Vickers are romancing again . . . We like Sir Cedric Hardwicke's explana-tion of the "handle" on his name; he say's he's one of several actors knighted in England in order to raise the status of screen players there to a point where ordinary people will speak to them . . . Mickey Rooney and his pal, Sidney Miller, are investing heavy dough in a Catalina Island nightery and hope to have it open by niidsummer . . . Alfred Hitchcock, dean of mystery-film directors, has signed to narrate a weekly whodunit via radio . . . Linda Darnell's papa, who came here to retire, is now a clerk in the Beverly Hills post office.

We hear that Joan Crawford has ultimatumed Warner Brothers that her next picture must be in Technicolor. Are we correct in believing that she's never made a "tinter" in the past?... Height-of-something-or-other: When Veronica Lake arrives in Salt Lake tomorrow for the premiere of "Ramrod," she'll be greated by the meinbers of her Salt Lake fan ciub, all wearing traditional Lake hairdos! . . . Alice Faye and Phit Harris have applied for a permit to install a two-way radio in their car . . . Wotzis about Frank Smatra begging for the priest's role in "The Miracle of The Bells," with money no object? . . . Looks like you should have waited a few more days, boss, before reporting that Maria Montez has foresworn temperament. We hear she's balked at

Our Children

When a child fails, his failure is shared by all concerned-parents, family, school teacher, community, all must take their share of the responsibility for the failure. The best thing to do is to study the cause of the failure and try to remedy it from the root.

It is not always possible to cure a failure. There are causes too deep for us sometimes but there is one thing we can do always. We can shield the child from public disgrace when he has done nothing to deserve it, and when all of us have a share in the trouble.

When a school child tails, that failure should be a ecret between him and his teacher, between the school and the family. The teacher and principal should never mention it before the class. Any remark about a child's failure in school work is to be made in private and with every evidence of sympathy and willingness to help.

At home, the child's failure is not to be discussed before the other members of the family. A child feels bad enough about his failure without adding anything to it. The weight of brotherly or sisterly scorn just about breaks the camel's back. The tart remarks of the older relatives are far too much to be borne with fortitude. The failed child is wounded and in need of immediate help first to restore his bruised spirit and then to aid him in preventing another failure.

"But he doesn't care." Don't believe anything like that. He cares greatly. If he swaggers, he is putting up a defense. If he is smiting and chatting, he is just whistling in the graveyard. Take him aside and see if there is any way in which he can be helped, and be sure to protect kim from any form of publicity.

The publication of the honor roll in the daily paper is fine. Let it go at that. Those on the roll are pleased and those who are not don't suffer very much or too long from the uplifted cycbrows and the question, "Why aren't you there?" A whole lot of children are not there,

But there is a form of publicity that is very harmful to such children as are branded failures by it. It would for instance, be very bad practice if children were listed as good, excellent and poor in school work and their names published in a newspaper. It is just as bad to list them on the blackboard or the bulletin board as poor, failing, and the like. You see, children like grown folk, must depend upon the support of public opinion and if they lose it, they lose a great deal of what might make them successful in days to come. Failures are to be strictly confidential in the school and the home circle.

"The slow child is a thorn in the flesh of his mother and teacher," says Angelo Patri. He tells you how to evercome this fault in a helpful leaflet, P-11, "Slowness." To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to him, c/o this paper, P. O.

NATION TODAY By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. -(P) — If you're puzzled by the labor terms being flung around in Congress these days, here's what some of them mean. Arbitration—

A third, disinterested party is called in voluntarily—but only voluntarily by an employer and his workers to settle a dispute. When they call in an arbitrator, always as a last resort, both sides agree to abide by his decision. Voluntary arbitration is often used. But there's no law compelling arbitration. Congress won't pass such a law now. Unions and employers alike are dead set against it.

Boycott-There are two kinds of boycott, as follows: Primary boycott: A union won't handle the goods of a plant with which it has a labor dispute. Secondary boycott: A union won't handle goods of a plant which, although not in dispute with that union, is disputing with some other union.

Checkoff-A union gets a boss to agree to deduct union dues and assessments from the pay of union members and turn them over to the union. Closed shop— No one but union members can vork or be hired there. Collective bargaining-An employer and a union, which represents his employes, bargain to make a contract over things like wages, hours and working conditions. Conciliation-Effort by an outside party, such as a representative of the U. S. conciliation service, to get an employer and his workers to settle a dispute.

Featherbedding— Union rules which set up jobs for more workers than are necessary.

Guaranteed or annual wage-Agreement between employer and his workers to give them a guaranteed amount of work a year, or part of a year, or a guaranteed income.

Injunction-

A court order issued in a labor dispute to stop something, such as a strike.

Such orders rarely have been issued by federal courts since 1932 when Congress passed, the anti-injunction law, called the Norris-La Guardia act. This law sets down rules which, among other things, makes it very tough for a federal judge to issue an injunction in a labor dispute. (A number of states have similar laws for judges of their courts.)

Jurisdictional dispute-Dispute between two or more unions-not involving the employerover organizing workers, doing a certain job, or something else. It may or may not end in a strike. Lockout-An employer shuts down his plant pecause of a dispute with his emploves.

Maintenance of membership--Workers who voluntarily join union—in a shop with a maintenance of membership contract-must remain members while the contract lasts. Mediation This is the same as conciliation.

Open shop-Where anyone can get a job and work without joining a union.

Union security-Local A union's efforts to stay strong by tulle and little plumes, which getting a boss to agree to a closed getting on a cloud." I thou shop, union shop, or maintenance of membership.

Union shop-Non-union members can be hired but must, within a certain time, join the union. SOIL CONSERVATION GROUPS TO CONVENE

H. W. Tilberry of Mer Rouge, D. D Wood of Tallulah, L. H. Cook of St. Joseph and Claude Tarver of Sicily Island will be among ten U. S. soil conservation department district supervisors who will go to Chicago next week to attend the first convention of their national organization. From Chicago the group will go directly to Baton Rouge for the state meeting of soil conservation district supervisors which will open on February 28. E. C. McArthur of Gaffney, S. C., president of the national association, will be the principal speaker at ment held in the United States? the Louisiana meeting.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Birds of a feather are no longer nesting together at Berlin's battered zoo, which is waging its own rigorous "battle of the winter" in the midst of a sorely-beset

The zoo's surviving animals get a regular ration of coal to warm their cages-which is more than German numans get.

That's why attendance is unusually high now for winter months. Many visitors come daily, pay their one mark (ten cents) admission and then inger near the stoves in the patched but heated buildings. However, the fuel ration is small and the zoo has had to consolidate and retrench during the protracted cold of

This has resulted in some strange age mates. The zoo's 20 surviving parots (out of a pre-war total of between 200 and 300) are in with the guinea pigs. The barn owls are in with a fancy breed of chickens. Some few rare tropical birds chatter their strange cries in cages which also contain mute

Other doves are in with the guinea nens. And even the two proud peaocks must share their cage with owls. None of the zoo's survivors seem too happy on their reduced rations, nor too warm. Only a bear and a wolf, Beta Delta high school sorority.

Proceeds from the tag day will go vive in outdoor pens these days. A chimpanzee has a trick of wrapping himself in a ragged coverlet, though there's a coal stove burning in the reduced monkey house.

Still hanging on some enclosures are signs reading "Feeding the Animals Is Forbidden," but a guard remarked wryly that in these days the warnings are superfluous.

"NIL Kills Even Odors I Thought Nothing Could Help!"

says Mrs. S., a NIL user

"Why do I like NIL?" writes Mrs. S. "I couldn't stop with giving you just one reason—I have at least four! First: I like NIL because it is odorless. Perfume deodorants are embarrassing to me because they suggest to visitors that maybe I'm a poor housewife who can't keep her house clean and odorless. NIL never embarrasses me.

"Then, I like NIL because it kills even odors I thought couldn't be killed—like taking cigar smoke out of my rugs, drapes and curtains, and keeping our wet basement from smelling moldy.

"Also, I like NIL because with its help I can keep my dog in the house without embarrassing odors. I never believed anything could kill so many odors, or kill them so fast—but NIL surely made a believer out of me!"

We say, with Mrs. S., "You can't believe NIL could do so many things until you've tried it. Get a bottle of NIL today—"NIL that odor"—and see for yourself!

Why We Say NIL is the Really TRUE DEODORANT:

- 1. It quickly destroys (oxidizes) all objectionable home odors. NIL is patented—no other works like NIL.
- 2. It does not merely "mask" an odor with another odor.
- 3. It is completely odorless—has no odor, leaves no odor.

The N. F. T. W. leader also criticized legislation to outlaw the closed shop and its modifications, under which union membership is a condition of employment.

The issue there, Beirne declared, is not whether the closed shop shall be deemed lawful or unlawful, but whether labor unions "are to be permitted to survive as virile, active and militant organizations."

Beirne termed the closed shops and its variations "a most effective producer of union responsibility. The N. F. T. W. also opposed legis-

He was now an open shop man as to employes having to do with written appeals to public opinion, an attitude taken long ago by others who will accept Stern's conversion with indifference and suspicion, and his economic nerve whined like an electrical banio as he told the committee the with announced British policy to guild had struck him to put him out maintain existing immigration quotas of business, picking a time when he was run down financially as a conse-British troops were reported on quence of the paper shortage, Mr. reliable authority to have been Stern said the guild had decided that strengthened in Tel Aviv, Jewish city, it would be good union tactics to because of road mine blasts that strike him, rather than the Philait would be good union tactics to delphia Inquirer, because he was the

At a guild meeting in New York a union quare agitator reported happily that the Mirror's guild was fighting for a clause that would make it impossible for the paper to fire anyone for any reason short of the commission of a felony. Then, if the paper couldn't prove the felony by convicting the person in court, the subject would have an action for damages. Saboteurs, loafers and incompetents would be protected. The sense of this meeting was that the decent newspaper workers had no intention to make ommon cause with the bums and the Communists to guarantee them job

MOBLEY DEFENDS STATE MAT CROWD AGAINST CANNY HERE

Texan Defends Newly Won Light-Heavy Title At Kallio's Tonight

Rex Mobley, newly crowned Louisiana state light heavyweight champion makes the first defense of his title here tonight against the challenge of "Wild Bill" Canny, Independence, Kans,, in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Gus Kallio's

Mobley, who won the title only week ago in a four-man tournament will be defending a belt he has not yet had the pleasure of actually holding. Although he is officially the champ of the newest creation among mat titlists, Mobley couldn't be presented with the belt at the close of last week's tournament because the mid-section adornment had not arrived from the engraver in New Orleans in time.

The Texas City, Tex., tussler has no fears that he'll be dethroned tonight although the match promises to be a rough-and-tumble one since both Mobley and his challenger are rather reckless performers, especially Canny. The match will have a time limit of an hour and a half with two falls to Semi-final attraction of the night will bring together "Sailor" Watkins, the Birmingham policeman, and Walter Stratton, Chicago weight lifting champion. They'll battel over an hour limit distance, also with two falls to win.

AMATEUR 'PUGS' BATTLE TO DRAW

Monroe, Shreveport In 3 1/2 To 3 ½ Deadlock; Woods Beats Townsend

Amateur boxers of Monroe and Shreveport, both teams sponsored by rival Optimist Clubs, battled to a 1/2 to 3 1/2 draw here last night at Gus Kallio's Arena with a fairly good crowd turning out for the events despite a cold rain that was blamed for knocking the attendance short of expectations. June Woods, West Monroe belter fighting for Monroe, scored a main event victory over Tony Townsend, Shreveport, in an exciting punchfest between welterweights.

Woods, whose chief claim to fame is decision he holds over Bastrop's Norris Ray, Southern A. A. U. welterchampion, jarred Townsend weight repeatedly with rights and lefts throughout most of the three rounds and looked particularly impressing in the first two heats. Townsend began bleeding at the mouth in the first ound and Wood gave him no rest. But the rugged Fair Park High School battler was not one to give up and he showed a surprising finish and he rallied from what earlier appeared a complete beating to hammer Woods with some staggering punches in return. Townsend's rally brought a trickle of blood from Woods' mouth, but his spurt was not enough to win him the fight.

"Red" Shipman, Shreveport lightweight, won the only abbreviated match of the night when he scored a technical knockout victory over Whitman Smith, local 135-pounder. The match was a good one while it lasted with Smith showing surprising punching power in a close first round. Shipman forged ahead in the second round, however, cutting Smith's nose. and because of the injury Smith was not permitted to answer the bell for th, third round.

The veteran Robert Gates, Monroe, punched out a decision over Tommy Reed, Shreveport, in a 126-pound thriller in which the hard hitting Gates had the edge all the way, but found Reed, said to have been fighting his first ring match, a willing mixer who won the applause of the crowd for his staying power.

Monroe took the lead in the opening match when Eugene Dean, 98, outpointed George Richardson, Shreveport, in a close fight. The first and last rounds were especially close, but Dean had the second in a breeze as he jarred Richardson with several main event here Wednesday night.

the single draw in their 100-pound scrap, second official match of the card. The boys swapped punches titfor-tat all the way.

Don Adams and Harvey Dunn scored victories for Shreveport, Adams decisioning Doug Perkins, Monroe, in the 110-pound bout, and Dunn outpointing Herbert Dean in a bantamweight scrap.

The Adams-Perkins fight started slow and even in the first round, but Adams forged ahead in the second and third. Dean looked best against Dunn in the first heat, but slowed as the Shreveport belter took charge in the second and third.

Two exhibition bouts, in which no decisions were made, filled out the program with Twight Carr, Monroe, fighting Jerry Hibbard, Monroe, and Billy Reno, Monroe, meeting Al Waton, Monroe.

The judges were Dr. Jack Rawls and Darrell Foreman, Bastrop, and Paul Martin, Monroe, Foreman also refereed the matches. Lawrence Gibbs the announcer, and Aubrey Young kept time.

BIG BEAVER, Mich., Feb. 20 .-- (AP) -A 26-year-old father lost his life in a futile attempt to rescue his two young children as the family's twostory frame house near here was destroyed by fire early today.

Dead are Edward Frank Welch, the father; Flora May, four, and Edward Frank, Jr., three.

Police said the children were trapped in an upstairs bedroom when the flames broke out about 1:30 a.m. Welch and his wife, Eva, 28, escaped from the burning building by jumping out a back window, but the father rushed back into the house through the front door.

He was overcome by smoke before he could reach the children.

Critically burned in the fire was Welch's mother, Mrs. Flora Welch, 44. Also trapped in an upstairs room, she made her way to the first floor but fell unconscious at the foot of the stairs. She was taken to the Royal Oak General Hospital with third-degree burns.
The children's mother escaped with minor burns.

Mr. Hiller stated that each person as a right to worship according to he dictates of his conscience and that e must combat intolerance and seek the truth, thereby being able to live ogether in an amicable manner. In onnection with his remarks he quoted Charles Evans Hughes and others in their broad viewpoints.

Mr. Trousdale declared that religion nust embody the principles enunciated in the Golden Rule and paid tribute to those unselfish and loyal nen who laid down their lives that Democracy might survive. He decried he arguments that too often arise among people who settle nothing and ause scars that cannot be healed. "Yet General Eisenhower, Secretary of War Patterson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and others are broadcasting over the country that they cannot take this cut without wrecking national defense, crippling the air corps and scuttling the navy * * *. "I say to Secretary of the Navy Forestal. General Eisenhower and Adniral Nimitz that if you cannot give is an adequate national defense durng the third year after the close of he war with $14,460,000,000 available or expenditure, without wrecking the air corps and scuttling the navy, you ought to step aside and give someone se a chance." Taking much the same line Curtis leclared, "It is regrettable that the var and navy departments are not oday fighting side by side with Congress to prevent waste in those departments"

The Nebraskan said people want a strong air force maintained, "but they ire confident that the war departmen an get along without a lot of chaufeurs, attendants, escorts, and equipment for officers.

"The people of America are intelligent," Curtis continued. "They know that the navy can stop spending millions of dollars for the most expensive silver finger bowls." Senator Taft, Ohio, of the Senate

Republican policy committee, forecast favorable Senate vote on the Milikin proposal to cut the budget $4.500,000,000. He added to a reporter nowever, that when the two houses evet together for a final settlement the an Illinois Central railroad ticket utcome is likely to be a $5,000,000,000

Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, who has been talking about economy since he entered the Senate 14 years ago, agreed with Taft on the $5,000 -000,000 figure and said he would be vell satisfied with such a result.

Byrd said in the Senate yesterday he would not do anything to impair national defense, but he disagreed with navy contentions that a 3500 000 -000 cut in its funds would "immobilize" the fleets.
While the Virginian told his coleagues that Congress ought not to cut taxes this calendar year, Taft asserted that a tax reduction is even nore important than a large payment on the national debt and that $3,500,-000,000 of any saving ought to be applied to tax cutting after July 1.

SCIENTISTS BREATHE CARBON MONOXIDE

BERKELEY, Calif., Feb. 20.--(/P)-Four scientists, experimentally breathing a mixture containing deadly carbon monoxide, played an important war-time role in backstopping the navy's safety precautions in submarine and aircraft design and construction. Dr. John Lawrence, brother of the cyclotron inventor, Dr. Ernest O.

Lawrence, headed the project. The results were reported in the American Jo rnal of Physiology. P Lawrence and his associates, Dr.

Cornelius A. Tobias, F. J. Roughton and M. L. Gregersen, sought to learn whether the navy could relax its precautions against carbon monoxide poisoning in the interest of submarine and aircraft development.

They inhaled enough of a carbon monoxide mixture to produce unconsciousness, but to prevent great danger to themselves they breathed pure oxygen immediately afterward. They thus determined, Dr. Lawrence said, that the human respiratory system does not convert the carbon monoxide into relatively harmless carbon dioxide, which ordinarily is thrown oil by exhaling the breath.

They concluded the navy's safety rules could not be relaxed.

The "Big Four" at Potsdam previously had agreed that Austria's "Gecman assets" must be surrendered. For many months past, however, controversies have arisen over Russian seizures of property which Britain and the United States said originally was Austrian that had been taken over by the Germans.

The Soviet Deputy Feodor Gousev brought in a proposal today that all Austrian properties owned by the German state or German nationals before March 13, 1938, the day of the Anschluss, and all acquired since then except that taken by force should be subject to seizure as German assets. The Soviet plan suggested that properties confiscated from Jews with-
